

---

Is Chess A Mess Or A Mastermind Turn?

Chess seems attractive and a fun game. But for actual it's not an easy game like Ludo Star or Cards to start. Are you thinking to start playing it? I will suggest you think thrice about it as for whether it can be a Mess or a Mastermind turn of your life. You may feel like the most genius person, if and only if you learn, how to be played. But if you don't know, then stepping back is the best choice.

Whereas learning this game to be played will never make you feel time wasted. It has many advantages and fewer disadvantages. But you see, some people play this game after getting impressed by the chess sets. Hey Fellas, don't underestimate this game ever. You will surely pay for it if you do.

The chess pieces are worth to be imagined and touched. Oh Gosh, those classy chess pieces. Never mind, I had never played this game, but the results after stepping in it can be as:

It can be a mastermind turn:

- Sharp those planning skills: Chess steps are to taken very wisely. And with the best possibilities of what will comes after you. Turns have to be played with intense planning. And because of this, your planning skills get sharpened even for your daily life. You started to think about the results and outcomes of every turn.

And it is tremendous if you could think of more than one shift. Experts believe thrice of all the tricks. As they know to plan and exhibit it. Try to use chess pieces very attentively. Chess boards are your execution centre, play it well, man.

- Makes you concentrated: If the chess sets are eye-catching, then you better should focus well. Anyhow, this game not only builds your analytical or planning skills, but it also keeps you focused. You learn to achieve the results as positive or negative, till the end. It allows you to show concentration for being played. Chess requires it a lot. You got distracted; you could lose it. Simple is it, have consistency, and win it.
- Build up your confidence: I found many people who stay confused. What to do and what not to do? They think a lot. What I see in them is a lack of confidence. The ones who cannot decide the actions. The same is the case in chess. You are hesitating to play your turn; you are losing your confidence in front of your opponent.

These games help you regain it. The quicker with the trick you play, the more confidence you will get to face the results.

- Promotes your Brain to Think and Grow: The ability of thinking is a great need. One should have the tact to think profoundly and decide. This practice and exercise help your brain to think and grow. And this is the best game to turn yourself a mastermind trickery.

Yes, you hear me. Start playing it, and make your brain think. As it is well said, the minds that are idols are the best to be used. Make your brains get used to it, to think deeply and grow.

---

These games allow you to communicate with your mind fast. As you can say, replace your brain as a computer processor.

- Increases your IQ Level: What you say? Do only smart people play chess? I say no, it makes, even turn people sharp. It is also proved through a scientific study that playing this game can change the IQ level of a person. It was studied on 400 students, with a period of four months and the results were astonishing. Having a low IQ level? Do people make fun of you for this? Or are you disturbed with it? Then why are you here? Grab your chess boards and chess pieces and start to increase your IQ level. But be patient as it requires time, practice and passion.

It can be a mess:

- Change in Behavior: Many people play games as it is just for fun and time pass. But there are also those kinds of people who took board games very seriously. As for them, it's a kind of thing DO or DIE. Come on, Peeps, I mean Grow up.

Anyways, chess can have a significant effect on your behaviour and mood. The ones who are addicted to it know it well. They started to think that if they are a failure, who cannot win. They began to feel frustrated. But for actual, I do believe that luck has a significant part in these games.

Leave everything; in these scenarios, I only think about the chess pieces. Please be kind to them, PLEASE.

- Time Consuming: It takes a lot of your time. Mark my words, even you can forget to eat, drink even blinks sometimes. Don't take it as start it today, and finish it today. This only game gives you your entire life to complete a single chessboard.
- Practice Required: If you don't know how to play it. And you are desired to learn this game. Then VOILA, Congrats you are going to die. Sorry. It requires practice and practice. Just like mathematics problems. The more they practice, the better the skills. So it can create a mess with many other tasks of your life. Try to balance your time requirements and other practices.

In the end, the choice is yours. Getting impressed and astonished by those luxurious kinds of chess boards and chess sets could be dangerous. But for real, this is a game people die for.

Chess is the only board game that is having the same status and value for the past 1500 years. Experts and highly intelligent people play this game. But the ones who are dumb, and having difficulty with their mathematical skills. It's an excellent suggestion to start at least practising it. It will surely turn your life experiences.