Some of the causes for these motorcycle accidents are unforeseen because most of the time the accident happens within a flash of a minute that you barely have time to prevent it. Most motor vehicle drivers get distracted on the road through chatting or talking on the phone, talking to a passenger, changing music on the radio, looking for something in the car, eating while driving and so on. Other drivers could be worn out as a result of the day's work and end up having sleepy bouts when driving. As a result, they end up ramming into a Biker without knowing thereby causing an accident. There is also drunk driving where a driver drives under the influence of alcohol.

Other times the accidents can be as a result of changing lanes without much careful thought especially the motorcycle riders because they can fit on a small space on the road. They do this mostly to avoid traffic jam. So when they maneuver into a lane without due diligence they end up ramming into a moving or a standby vehicle or truck. In most cases, it is the Biker who suffers the injuries that could be fatal or even lead to death. Unfortunately this may happen even if the Biker has full protection gear such a helmet, arm and leg wear and gloves. This is because unlike a vehicle the motorcycle is not cushioned thus it does not protect or prevent you from severe injuries.
